Century Club.

The Monroe Century Club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. L. Hoover. Miss Lucile Proctor conducted a very instructive lesson on Act III of Romeo and Juliet.

Mrs. Herman Levy had the paper for the afternoon and the subject being "planning and serving," was handled in a very novel manner. She chose for her lesson, "The Xmas Dinner" and gave an interesting talk on planning the menu preparations to be done the day before. Then she passed to the club members, charming little booklets containing each a receipt and a quotation: Mrs. Davenport's being the one that told of decorations for the dining room and table.

After each was read we had the receipts for an entire "Xmas" dinner. The booklets were given to the members as souvenirs of the afternoon.

This was the regular home economics day, but owing to a change in plans, no luncheon was expected. However, at the end of the lesson Mrs. Hoover surprised the Club with a most delicious two course luncheon. She was ably assisted by Mrs. A. A. Melson and Miss Belle Johnson. The ladies decided that some surprises are quite nice indeed. Mrs. Hugh Stevens was the pleasant guest of the Club during the afternoon.

Don't forget to look at the new LaValliere with Diamonds. See R. Manning Walker.
